

Building on Success at Smart Recruitment

It is often the case that those Recruitment Consultants who have followed more than one career path make the very best Recruitment Advisors themselves. This is certainly the case for Andrew Mason, newly appointed to the senior role of recruitment consultant with award winning Smart Group Recruitment Solutions.

After a successful career in Graphic design, Andrew felt a desire to change direction and his natural sales ability and personal ambition saw him succeed in the world of recruitment where he has spent several years making his mark.

Having worked for both SME agencies as well as international brands, Andrew was attracted to Smart Recruitment because of impressive growth opportunities and potential career progression. Andrew will be responsible for the running of the new Construction Division which places both permanent trade staff and white collar workers. Quantity surveyors, Estimators and Architect positions are all available currently.

Helen Stacey, Director of Smart Recruitment comments "We have been looking to introduce another service within our Construction division for some time but finding the right person to run that was key to our future success. Andrew has fitted in really well and is already working with a number of local clients to source them suitable candidates."

Anyone looking for a change in career or a client looking for a member of staff can contact Andrew direct on 08456 800 800 x 3100.
